Elliot resigns Council seat

In an election that was already noted for its surprises, another unexpected event happened in regard to the Minden municipal scene Friday. Councillor-elect Dean Elliott tendered his resignation from the post he was elected to less than two weeks earlier.

The resignation was contained in a letter delivered to Anson, Hindon and Minden clerk-treasurer Elinor Burke Friday afternoon.

Eliott had placed second in a five way race for the three vacant seats on the Minden council. He polled 756 votes, 65 behind leader and incumbent Lyle McKnight. The third seat on the council is to be decided today in Lindsay as two candidates, Ed Pergolas and Larry Cummins, obtained an equal number of votes, 421. The recount will determine who will win the third seat on the council.

The resignation of Elliott does not mean that the two candidates who are tied automatically gain seats on the council. According to the Municipal Act, the seat won by Elliott is now vacant and the new council has the right to appoint any qualified member of the community to fill that post.

The new council must meet within the first nine days of December to be sworn in and to take office.

Elliott said earlier this week that he had been asked by the Chief Judge of Ontario to make a decision between his seat on the township council and his post as Justice of the Peace. "There was really no choice for me to make," Elliott said in an interview on Monday. "I have been involved in policing and Justice of the Peace work for the past 15 years, and I wasn't about to give that up."

Elliott said that prior to running he had obtained a legal opinion as to any conflicts that might arise if he were elected to the council. "I was aware that I would not be able to rule on cases involving municipal by-laws, but other than that my lawyer advised me there was no legal reason why I couldn't be both a member of the council and Justice of the Peace."

Elliott says he received a call on Friday from the Chief Judge of Ontario and was told he would have to make a choice between the two positions. His superior pointed out that serving in the two posts might lead some individuals to think that the ends of justice were not being served. Elliott described the request from the Chief Judge as a policy decision.

The successful candidate said he was disappointed at not being able to serve the municipality on the council. He also noted that he had checked into the possible conflicts before allowing his name to stand for election and was upset that he had not been informed prior to the election that the dual role would have been unacceptable. Elliott said he felt the policy decision by the Chief Judge might have been the result of a similar (but more contentious) situation in another part of the province.

Study endorses steam tourist train proposal

Hopes for the operation of a steam powered tourist train between Lindsay and Haliburton Village received a boost this past week when a study on the feasibility of the proposal was released. According to the findings of the study group employed by Victoria and Haliburton Counties and the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism, while the operation of the train may not initially be profitable the benefits in tourism to both counties would be substantial.

The study group notes that estimates of revenue from the train and potential passengers were on the conservative side. "...any change in these assumptions would probably be favourable to the operation," the report states.

Dysart et al Reeve Murray Fearrey reported on the findings of the study group to the November 19 meeting of County Council. He noted that the study had found the county lacked major points to attract tourists to the area and the train could become a focal point which would draw attention to this part of the province. He noted if the proposal became a reality, it would be the only steam excursion in Southern Ontario.

The study group notes that a large potential market for the train lies in the metropolitan areas around Toronto. It was also pointed out that the opening of Canada's Wonderland at Maple next spring will bring a further influx of visitors to the province, many of whom will be looking for additional sights or attractions after visiting the massive theme park.

The study projected that 20,000 passengers would be attracted to the train in its first year of operation. It predicts the number of people drawn to the train ride would increase rapidly in the first few years as news of the attraction spread. The rate of growth is expected to drop in subsequent years, but the study foresaw a steady growth.

A complete tour, from Lindsay to Haliburton and return, would take 8 hours, leaving time for stops in Fenelon Falls, Kinmount and Haliburton. The study notes "There are several reasons why the connection with Haliburton would add to the market appeal of the tourist train," and goes on to list the attractive location, the large number of lodges and resorts which could be tied in with the train excursion and the historical significance of the terminal at Haliburton where the original railway stopped.

The study group also saw possibilities for side trips and partial trips on the train leaving tourists free to choose from a variety of all day to less than half day experiences on the train.

The study points out that the future of any proposal now must await a decision from the Canadian Transport Commission, currently considering an application by CN Rail to abandon the line from Lindsay to Haliburton. If the request is allowed, the excursion backers may be hard pressed to obtain funds to purchase and maintain the track bed. Likewise, if CN is told it must retain the rail line the excursion people must strike a deal with the rail company for the use and maintenance of the line.

The report also questions CN's cost of repairing the washout on the line. It cites evidence presented earlier this year at the CTC hearings regarding the washout and how costly the repairs would actually be.

The study concludes by noting the tourist train would likely operate at a deficit in its first year but that it would be expected to show a modest profit in the second year of

Separate school supporters push for representation

The Haliburton County Board of Education may be forced to reserve one of the 14 positions on the board for a trustee representing separate school supporters in the county, even though there are no separate schools within its jurisdiction.

That possibility came to light at the November 19 meeting of the county council when it was revealed that separate school supporters in the Cardiff and Bicroft Improvement District of the county are considering court action to force the issue.

A number of students from that portion of the county are being taken by bus daily to a separate school in Bancroft. This school is under the jurisdiction of the Hastings Separate School Board. The Haliburton Board, which is empowered to collect school taxes within the county, pays the Hastings Board for the number of students using the Bancroft facilities.

However, since school taxes are being collected in this county for separate school purposes, according to the School Act, the separate school supporters are allowed to have a representative on the Haliburton County Board of Education.

Since the county, under the School Act, is allowed 14 trustees, the question now arises as to which township or area will have to give up a representative on the school board so the position of separate school supporter can be created. The area in question, Cardiff and Bicroft, share a single representative now.

According to Cardiff Reeve Malcolm McGillivray, the push for the separate school trustee has been in the works for some time. "I knew it was coming," he told the meeting Wednesday. He said the students had been travelling to Bancroft for four years to attend the separate school there.

Dysart et al Reeve Murray Fearrey said that while he agreed with the principle of the representation, he wondered if it made any sense for the parents to be seeking a seat on the Haliburton Board. He suggested the county talk with the Boards of Education and the Ministry of Education and see if there might be some way of having someone from the Cardiff area serve on the Hastings board which is directly responsible for the education taking place in the

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

Haliburton Highlands
the heart of getaway country

First copies of the feasibility study for a steam operated tourist train reached the action committee formed by Haliburton and Victoria Counties last week. The study is very encouraging in that it does suggest the train could be viable by the second year on providing it was not burdened with the cost of a large capital outlay at the beginning. The consultants were somewhat hampered in their study by the fact that the C.N.R. refused to speculate as to any form of agreement that may be made pending the outcome of the abandonment hearing earlier this fall. No matter what decision is rendered by the Transport Commission co-operation is going to be required from the C.N.R. to make the proposal possible.

Another study released this week is "The Future Role of Rail", an interim report produced by the Ontario Task Force on Provincial Rail Policy chaired by M.P.P. Margaret Scrivener. The report views with alarm the C.N. and C.P. intention to abandon branch lines. Already 15% of the provinces one time rail network has been abandoned and this figure could increase dramatically if all those now pending are allowed. In our area the task force saw tourism as a major factor for consideration and says: "On the balance, it seems that tourist trains, like branch lines, must be judged not by the net revenues or losses they generate, but by their contribution to the provinces economy. If that contribution is larger than the cost of providing the service, then the taxpayer is well served."

If the C.N.R. is serious about accepting their responsibility to Canadians they must work with our counties and the Ministry of Industry & Tourism to assist in making this tourist train a reality.

Open house at Minden MNR

The Ministry of Natural Resources is holding an open house at their Minden facilities this Saturday, November 29 from noon to 4:00 p.m. The purpose is to show and explain the background information they have prepared which will be used to develop a strategy for their future programmes in the Minden District.

The Minden District Land Use Strategy should be of interest to you if you fish, hunt, cut timber, hike or canoe. After viewing and discussing the background information and the alternative strategies the Ministry invites comments from the public and various organizations towards the implementation of their formal plan.

How to read financial statements and plan for expansion

Most of us pay our auditors a considerable sum of money each year to prepare a financial statement and tend to consider the exercise as something necessary to please the government and their tax department. The Federal Business Development Bank is running a one day seminar at the PineStone Inn on Tuesday, December 2 to show you how much more can be gained from that document. There will be a review of what to look for in your statement and how to best use it for making sound decisions and take the guess work out of financial planning. If the future of your business is important to you -- don't miss this opportunity!

For more information and to register for the seminar call Alex Mcleod in Peterborough at 748-3241.

Ministry event books

The Ministry of Industry and Tourism Winter Book is now available in our office to anyone who may wish to become aware of winter events throughout the province. The book is distributed free of charge and with the thrust of the Provinces "Yours to Discover" promotion going towards specific events it has become widely used as a reference by potential visitors.

Some of the information in the book about the Highlands is incorrect. That is a result of our office not being able to obtain specific dates for annual events well in advance and sometimes guesing at when they would be -- or if they in fact would take place. Rather than take the chance of handing out incorrect information it may be better to hand out none at all. Therefore we urge all those wishing the Chamber to help publicize their coming events to contact the Chamber office at 286-1760.

Spring events, those taking place in March, April or May, must be provided to the Ministry by December 1. At this point in time we have one to submit. Do you know of any?

Christmas suggestion

Several books about Haliburton County are currently available and would make excellent gifts to anyone with an interest in the Highlands who has not yet read them. "In Quest of Yesterday" and "Dream of Excellence" both by Nila Reynolds are both in the stores in hard cover and selling at $5.95 and $4.95 respectively. A new publication this year is "Echoes of The Past", an 84 page illustrated edition which includes many fine pictures and interesting stories of Two Muskoka and Ten Haliburton Townships. This work was compiled and written by Ed Devitt, former owner of Camp Comak on Lake St. Nora, with contributions from Nila Reynolds. It sells for $6.95.

Another suggestion, if you are into sewing and making things is something made up of our own beautiful Haliburton Highlands Tartan available in 100% pure wool at only $19.95 per yard. If your local merchants don't have the books or the tartan call the Chamber Office -- we've got them.

New booklet explains acid rain problem

A booklet published by the Ontario Ministry of the Environment graphically illustrates and describes the nature and magnitude of acidic precipitation in the province and throughout eastern North America.

Commonly known as "acid rain", the phenomenon is acknowledged by scientists and governments to be the major environmental issue of the 1980s.

Entitled "The Case Against the Rain", the report describes the extent to which Ontario is affected by acid rain, the programs the province has under way to meet the challenge, and addresses the need for action required both in Canada and the United States to curb acid rain pollution.

Acid rain in eastern North America, and elsewhere, is attributed to pollution from sulphuric and nitric acid which originate chiefly from the combustion of fossil fuels, such as coal and oil, from power generating plants, ore smelting, petroleum refining, industrial furnaces and from cars and vehicles of all kinds.

Scientists estimate that if 1980 levels of acid loadings remain constant or increase over the next 10 to 20 years, Ontario could lose much or all of the aquatic life in as many as 48,000 susceptible lakes, which have little or no limestone to neutralize the acid, unless effective abatement measures are taken.

Ontario Environment Minister Harry C. Parrott, announcing publication of the report, said that his officials attending the international annual meeting of the Air Pollution Control Association in Montreal last June were surprised to learn that very few of this professional group, with headquarters in Pennsylvania, were "aware of the extent to which Canada is concerned or being affected by acidic emissions from the United States".

"Therefore, to more clearly bring our situation to the attention of our neighbors and their legislators, we are mailing this report to senators and congressmen representing northeastern states where much of this pollution originates," Dr. Parrott said.

"We hope this report with its wide circulation will alert still more of our citizens and those of our neighbors to the challenge of acid rain and what must be done to bring about solutions within the crucial time frame of the next ten years."

The booklet is available free of charge through contacting Environment Ontario or its regional offices throughout the Province, or from the Ontario Government Bookstore at 880 Bay Street, Toronto.

operation. This profit margin would continue to grow as initial expenses in starting the operation are absorbed by increased use of the attraction.

The following is a summary of the conclusions and recommendations drafted by the study group:

1. The steam excursion operation appears to be able to sustain itself financially after the original infusion of capital.

2. The promoters of the steam excursion concept should be encouraged to define in more detail the operating parameters of the system and their expectations of costs.

3. Potential government assistance for the concept should be explored, in light of the beneficial impacts on tourism and the economy of the area. We suggest that the Ministry of Industry and Tourism be approached to discuss how much they might contribute to the concept in either capital or on-going operating assistance.

4. Discussions should begin with CN as to possible methods of working the railway if abandonment is allowed or not allowed. For example, the charges that CN might make for use of the line if CN has to maintain the operation could be discussed.

5. The CTC should be contacted to determine if the decision in the abandonment procedure is to be forthcoming in the near future. More detailed planning for the operation cannot really take place until this decision has been made.

Players please patrons with professional performance

The polish of professionalism is starting to show.

That, above all else, was evident Friday and Saturday evening as the Highlands Little Theatre presented its third production, Agatha Christie's "A Murder is Announced". Almost all members of the cast appeared at ease on stage. It was no longer merely a recitation of memorized lines, but a chance for the players to get inside the characters they portrayed, to employ more than just the lines penned by Dame Agatha to bring life to their characters.

It is pleasant to see the transition which has taken place in the players and it bodes well for the future of amateur theatre in the Highlands.

"A Murder is Announced" is a light murder mystery in traditional Christie style. Set in a small village in rural England, the play throws together an unlikely assortment of characters to grapple with a tangled web of intrigue.

An announcement in the personal column of a local newspaper predicts that a murder will take place at a certain time. Sure enough, to the chagrin of the characters who attempted to dismiss the warning, a murder does take place at the appointed hour.

Miss Marple, Christie's answer to modern day Columbo, played expertly by Brenda Ellis attempts, along with the help of inspector Craddock, played by Stan Ashman, to unravel the mysterious events. It is a long way to the final solution and on the way a second murder takes place. In true Christie style the doer of dark deeds is the one we least expect and as usual her identity is not revealed until the very end.

Caryl Douglas as Letitia Blacklock, the hostess of the house where the murders take place, and also the murderer, is a centrepoint around which the players and the play revolve. Her ability and range on stage is a valuable asset to the production.

Kudos for a most outstanding debut must go to Faye Silver as the somewhat befuddled and aging Dora Bunner. This is her first appearance with the Highlands group and we hope it won't be her last.

Excellent performances were also turned in by veterans Heather Scully, Glen Carter, Yolanda McCormick, Dale McConnell and Betty Perugino. All are demonstrating a style and ability on stage that adds strength and cohesiveness to the production.

Newcomers Lynn Graham and John Miller also carried their parts well.

Director Mike Collins deserves praise for the final product. This is his first effort as director with the Highlands Little Theatre and we feel he can be justifiably proud of the play presented this past week.

After all those bouquets it is difficult to find something to kick about. Technically, the high school gymnasium is a less than ideal location for such a production. From the sixth row back the audience must be content with viewing the players from the waist up. It is a problem that many groups have and it is unfortunate a more adequate theatre is not available for such productions. Heavy shadows on the back of the set, a result of limited lighting facilities, also detracted from the presentation.

In general, the Highlands Little Theatre group can feel confident their presentation more than met the standards expected of them. With this to build on, we look for better productions in the months ahead.

Members of the production crew included: stage manager Lila Mitchell; assistant stage manager Koni Lattner; lighting and sound Wayne Henderson; set design Mike Collins; props Marilyn Meighton; make-up Caryl Douglas; publicity artwork Sandy Willis; and refreshments Belinda Brown and Eleanor Gilligan.

Miss Marple (Brenda Ellis), left, pronounces the body dead during a dramatic scene in Agatha Christie's play A Murder is Announced. The play was presented Friday and Saturday evenings at the high school auditorium by the Highlands Little Theatre. Other members of the cast shown here are, clockwise from Miss Marple, Glen Carter as Patrick Simmons, Lynn Graham as Phillipa Haymes, Caryl Douglas at Letitia Blacklock and the body, Faye Silver as Dora Bunner.

Education

Bancroft school.

Bicroft Improvement District chairman Meredith Amm told the meeting that since it has become known in his area that a move was about to be made to have a separate school trustee appointed, many people have changed their education support to separate schools. He said the members of the Improvements District Board were not in favour of the suggestion.

Minden Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt cautioned members of the council not to take a passive part in the question. He said the council should be careful that jurisdiction over education in the area in question is not lost altogether. "We have to deal with the ministry or they will take it away from us," he commented. "Never turn your back when they start playing with the fringe municipalities," he told the meeting.

Several members of the council expressed concern as to where this seat for the separate school trustee will be drawn from. The usual practice is for the seats to be apportioned through the county on the basis of population or assessment. While the present board generally follows that situation, a number of municipalities have representatives on the board when their population or assessment would not warrant it. (For example, under the formula Anson, Hindon and Minden townships are entitled to three trustees. The municipality had agreed in the past to cede one of those so Snowdon Township could have its own representative on the board.)

The county council has placed the issue on the back burner for the moment. Even if the separate school supporters were to force the issue by taking the matter to court, the redistribution of trustee seats would not take place until the 1982 election.

In the meantime the new county council will have to decide which municipality in the county will lose a representative on the Board of Education to enable the separate school supporters from the Cardiff and Bicroft areas to be represented on the board.

Editorial

The first step

The feasibility analysis of a steam operated tourist train released last week is one of the few bright spots on a dull economic horizon of late.

The study, commissioned by the counties of Haliburton and Victoria, with help from the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism, suggests the steam train proposal not only could become economically self-supporting, but that it would give the area a focus and identity which would attract vacationers from all parts of the province and regions beyond.

We suspect that most people locally endorse the proposal. That leaves but two major hurdles to be overcome before serious work can begin on mapping definite plans for the excursion.

The first, and perhaps most crucial, is the decision of the Canadian Transport Commission with regard to the future of the CN rail line between Lindsay and Haliburton. If CNR should be allowed to abandon the line, the excursion proponents will be left in a quandary. How the railway would dispose of the right of way, the cost and expertise needed to maintain and repair the line and other matters regarding it could overwhelm the organizer, leaving us with a great idea and no rails.

When the CTC met here, the representative was informed of the steam train proposal and the fact a feasibility study was underway. Since the commission has yet to render a verdict on the CNR application, we hope the commissioner was delaying any final decision until the report could be studied. If such is the case, the positive nature of the report should help to sway the decision in the counties' favour.

The second obstacle to be overcome is the initial infusion of capital to get the project off the ground. Organizers turn in this instance to the provincial government.

The province has already indicated interest through its participation in the feasibility study. There is certainly little need to convince the Ontario authorities that this region needs an economic boost. Whether it comes from the province directly or through the DREE program, it is certain the tourist train proposal will not get off the ground without the provincial participation. Persuasion of the most gentle but firm variety must now be applied.

The report issued last week, though a document filled with optimism, is only the first step on the long road to the completion of the steam train excursion. Residents of both counties have reason to be buoyed by its findings but that optimism should be tempered with the knowledge there are many miles to go before the long forgotten sound of a steam locomotive resounds across Highlands countryside again.

Report from Parliament

by William C. Scott, M.P.

The joint House of Commons/Senate Constitution Committee began its deliberations on Thursday, November 6th, and so far all of its sessions have been stormy and contentious.

It is becoming increasingly clear that Prime Minister Trudeau's constitution resolution is unacceptable to all of the provinces and regions of our country, and it has received a rough reception from all of the groups and individuals that have appeared before the committee to date.

The Right Honourable Joe Clark, Conservative Leader and Leader of the Official Opposition in the House, has charged that Prime Minister Trudeau is threatening the very future of the Canadian confederation.

Mr. Trudeau's constitution resolution, Finance Minister MacEachen's disastrous October budget and Energy Minister Marc Lalonde's outrageous energy policies, taken together, are designed to tear our country apart.

Mr. Clark told an audience in Ottawa last week that these three policies are driving a wedge into the country. He said that the mass exodus of oil drilling companies is robbing Ontario of orders for vehicles and equipment, which will result in more layoffs in our industries.

He also said that the government's flair for creating conflicts and disputes is holding back Canada's potential to grow economically, and is fanning the fires of western separatism.

Mr. Clark has been touring the country, urging Canadians to oppose Mr. Trudeau's policies and methods, but not on a regional or provincial basis. He says that Canadians should hold together in support of our country as well as opposition to the Liberal government in Ottawa.

In an obvious attempt to sell its policies in the west, the Prime Minister's office invited an Edmonton journalist to come to Ottawa for a briefing. They must have been shocked and dismayed at what he wrote when he returned home.

He said, "Prime Minister Trudeau has never looked more tired, or sounded more testy and is showing the strain of every one of his 61 years."

"The total impression left was that of a man at the last gasp of an obsessive drive towards the one thing he wants more than anything in the world - his own, private constitution."

He wrote that, by way of contrast, "Mr. Clark was relaxed, gracious and at peace with himself."

Mr. Trudeau said in a number of speeches throughout the western provinces that western separatism was not a real concern, that it was just the hysterical mutterings of a few malcontents.

He was wrong, of course, just as wrong as he was when he said a few years ago that separatism in Quebec was a "dead issue".

A poll of 1,400 western Canadians taken recently by the Canada West Foundation, a group that favours western separation, showed that only three per cent of those polled supported the government's position that federal consent alone was sufficient to patriate the constitution.

Sixty-eight per cent said that patriation should have the support of the provincial governments as well as the federal government, and 62 per cent said that patriation should have the support of all 10 provinces.

by Ron Reid of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists

Ontario's finest example of Carolinian woods is threatened by the chainsaw, with the threat coming not from some greedy commercial logger, but from the government agency charged with its protection. Backus Woods, a 650-acre tract nestled on the Norfolk sand plain near Lake Erie, is owned by the Long Point Conservation Authority but its management is entrusted to the foresters of the Ministry of Natural Resources, whose vision apparently does not extend beyond the end of the nearest chainsaw.

Backus Woods is unique, so much so that its reputation amongst naturalists is worldwide. This is the northern edge of the Carolinian hardwoods - a mosaic of hickories and oaks, tulip trees, sassafras, cucumber trees, and black gums that includes many of the large old trees typical of our forest heritage. Backus is not untouched - a previous cutting cycle 20 years ago by the Ministry removed historic trees such as a huge beech scarred with the initials of travellers in the 1800's, and a tall white pine marked with a crown to signify it had been chosen as a mast for a sailing vessel in the Queen's navy. But it is a healthy stand in conditions very close to its natural state.

Two years ago, the Conservation Authority voted for a ten-year moratorium to prevent the cutting of Backus Woods. Now the Ministry foresters are back, insisting that the Woods be cut under the terms of a twenty-year old management agreement. If the Authority refuses again, it appears they will be forced to buy their way out of the agreement. In effect, to preserve this unique asset which they already own, they will have to pay again to fend off the foresters!

If you feel offended at the short-sightedness of the harvest of Backus Woods, please drop a line to James Auld, Minister of Natural Resources, Queen's Park, Toronto, and urge him to pull in the reins on his foresters. Backus Woods is simply too important as an ecological sanctuary to allow commercial forestry gone awry to impair it for decades to come. We must somehow teach the foresters that a tree can be more than simply a sawlog, and that a heritage such as Backus Woods must sometimes take precedence over the production of fibre.

Training to provide better service

Once a week, in the early morning hours, three members of this community slip out of town on Highway 35. They head south and then west, their destination, Owen Sound, three hours distant.

No, it isn't a clandestine plot or subversive activity. It is all part of a plan to make the Minden Ambulance Service one of the best trained volunteer services in the province. If everything goes according to plan, that just might be the case when next April arrives.

The travelling trio are John Hulbig, Don Graham and John Lawson, all volunteers with the local ambulance service. They are travelling to Owen Sound each week to complete their Ambulance Emergency Care College Course.

Like their participation in the ambulance service, the decision to attend the course, the cost of getting there and the times spent away from the jobs or home are all donated.

"I sure am proud of them and the effort they are putting into their course," director of the local service Rob Luke commented during an interview recently. "Not only are they willing to take the time each week to travel to Owen Sound for their classes, but the course is a very rigorous one that requires at least two hours of home study each day as well."

The course involves classes in anatomy, physiology, emergency patient care, fluids and electrolytes, extraction, driver education, vehicle maintenance, triage (the sorting of victims at an accident scene in the order of their need of treatment) among others. The three started attending the course in October and will continue until next April. During that time period the volunteers will also have to serve 120 hours or hospital duty, assisting in various departments, obtaining first hand experience and learning how the needs may vary from patient to patient.

"The equipment we have to work with is improving," Rob pointed out, "but it is of little use unless we have the training and experience to use it properly." The seven month course is part of that training regimen.

It is just not these three volunteers who are attending "school" at the Minden Ambulance Service. The other members of the service also take part in regular training sessions at the Minden office. This could take the form of a film, reviews of procedures, or having a training officer come in to instruct the members right there.

"We often use actual calls we've made as points of discussion," Rob comments. "We discuss how we could have improved our response time or the care we gave the patient. There is always something to be learned from each call."

The head of the service said the more the volunteers and two full-time employees communicate the better service they can give on a call. "When you get to know your fellow worker well, you can anticipate his moves, you work better as a team."

Rob has praise for the local medical personnel. "The doctors and nurses have been excellent sources of information," he said. "They have taken the time to instruct and show our members the proper procedures, to correct our errors. This all helps in improving the service we give."

The volunteers require a grade 12 minimum. Before starting the college course they must have obtained their senior first aid certificate, hold a class F (emergency vehicles) drivers license, taken a mini-course in patient care and training in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

In addition to the training being received by the members of the Minden service, the group has a new vehicle to work with. The new ambulance arrived in September and, according to the director, is a vast improvement over the previous vehicle. He notes the ambulance has more working room for the attendant and supplies are stored in convenient, easy to reach compartments. The lighting for interior is better as is the warning light system on the outside of the vehicle. Oxygen supplies and suction equipment is improved over what was available in the other vehicle. There is better visibility for the driver and the vehicle turns in a shorter radius.

Rob notes the local ambulance service has a response time below the provincial average. He also points out that co-operation between the Minden and Haliburton Village service has been excellent. All ambulance calls are routed through a central dispatch centre in Haliburton. "We are constantly backing each other up," the director said, "and this sort of teamwork has paid off."

He also had praise for two first response team in the county, one located in Stanhope Township, the other in Wilberforce. "Because of the size of the area we have to serve, these people are often our first line of defense. Their co-operation and efficient working methods have helped to make our job a lot easier," Rob commented. (First response teams are not ambulance attendants but individuals, often associated with local fire brigades, who are trained in first aid and extraction.)

Rob, who joined the local service as a volunteer in 1976 was appointed director last year, is obviously proud of the effort all his members are making in upgrading their skills. "My aim is to have a college graduate on every call we respond to," Rob comments. When that day comes, Minden will indeed have one of the best trained volunteer ambulance services in the province, a fact that will no doubt please the director, but should also be a comforting knowledge to all of us who hope we may never have to call the emergency ambulance number.

Other members of the local service, besides Rob and the three who travel to Owen Sound are Gord Sammells, Helen Johnson, Tom Beronie and Richard Balas.

Damages high in mishaps

Four single car accidents and one involving a parked truck were reported by Minden OPP during the past week. In almost all instances, substantial damages were reported by the investigating officers.

Gunter Franke, 28, of Haliburton, was travelling east on Highway 530 November 21 when his pick-up truck drove onto the north shoulder, entered the ditch and rolled over. The mishap caused $5000 damage.

Constable Jim Solway was the investigating officer.

Icy road

A station wagon driven by Donna Herbert, 50, of Wilberforce was involved in a single car accident November 21 on County Road 10. The driver was travelling north when she lost control of the vehicle on an icy section and entered the east ditch. Damage was estimated at $8000.

Investigating officer was Constable Jim Solway.

Parked truck

A truck, parked at the side of Minden's main street, sustained $500 damage after it was struck by a car driven by Carleen Ackley, 19, of Oshawa. The parked vehicle was owned by John Harrison of Lutterworth Township.

According to police Ackley was driving her car south on the main street when she stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake pedal. She lost control of the car and it struck the parked vehicle.

The mishap took place shortly after 9:30 p.m., November 21. The Ackley car sustained $700 damage.

Ackley has been charged with careless driving.

Constable Gary Chapman investigated the incident.

Hits tree

While travelling south on Highway 519 just north of Haliburton Village, the vehicle Brian Lloyd 18 of Haliburton was driving left the road and struck a tree in the west ditch. The collision resulted in $4000 damage.

The accident was investigated by Constable Gary Chapman.

Loses control

Jacqueline Hutchings, 16, of Haliburton, lost control of the vehicle she was driving November 22 on the old Buckhorn Road near Haliburton. The vehicle was eastbound at the time and apparently crossed an icy patch just as the accident occurred. The car struck some rocks and stumps at the side of the road causing $2000 damage.

Constable Brian Dunham investigated.

Some rural hydro rates to drop 30%

The cost of electricity paid by year round rural and farm residential customers will be substantially reduced effective January 1, 1981 as a result of a $20-million special grant program announced recently by the Ontario Treasurer, Frank Miller.

The funds will enable Ontario Hydro to provide direct discounts to rural customers.

The $20-million will reduce the differential by about 30 per cent between the retail rate for electricity paid by rural residents relative to that paid by the average municipal retail customer.

Minister of Energy, Robert Welch, noted that this reduction honoured the commitment made by Premier William Davis to the Legislature last April, and said the program offered "important recognition of the increasing electrical costs which the farming community and rural Ontario face."

"The Government is committed to reducing the price of electricity for the farming community and rural areas to a range which is closer to the price paid by urban customers, and has instructed Ontario Hydro to reduce further the undue differential between rural and urban electrical rates by 1982", Mr. Welch said.

Mr. Welch said that as a result of this first step there will be an annual reduction of about $35 for each year round rural household in the Province, using more than 250 kwh per month.

Further reductions will result from subsequent actions to be taken by Ontario Hydro.

The special grant will apply to all rural residential customers, including farm-class customers having a residence on the Ontario Hydro retail system, but does not cover intermittent occupancy customers, such as cottagers or chalet owners, and commercial and industrial customers.

Reeve recovering

Lutterworth Reeve Ron Gambell is expected to return to Minden this week after being taken to Peterborough Hospital Saturday.

The reeve is believed to have suffered a minor stroke. Friends of Gambell say that following some tests earlier this week he is expected to return home.

Gambell was recently elected to his second term as reeve of Lutterworth Township.

Rabid animals are still a hazard.

Rabies, which is spread by infected animals, continues to be a serious problem in Ontario. It is of special concern in built up areas where domestic and wild animals are infecting children who come in contact with them.

Children should be warned to avoid stray pets, as well as wild animals, especially if they appear sick or friendly because these usually are signs that they are rabid.

Pets should be regularly vaccinated and kept indoors at night. You can help to control rabies by reporting to your local police, humane society or health unit any pets or wild animals which are acting strangely.

Do not handle your pet with bare hands immediately after it has fought with a rabid animal. Do not touch dead animals. Seek advice from a veterinarian. Contact your doctor or health unit immediately if your child or pet comes in contact with wild animals.

If you would like to know more about rabies write for a free copy of our pamphlet.

STANHOPE NOTES

A.F.Stevenson

Stanhope Township Council voted to adopt the new equalized assessment procedure proposed by the Province of Ontario, at the Council meeting on November 12. Deputy Reeve Stouffer registered the only dissenting vote. While the details are not yet public, the suggestion has been made that most of the property owners will not be seriously affected by the change.

Hearings on the subject are being arranged but the timing will be dependent on the availabilty of the officials charged with introducing the measure.

The sudden passing of Stewart Dawson came as a great shock to his family and to his very wide circle of friends. His immediate neighbours feel a deep sense of loss, for Stewart was a friend as well as a dependable neighbour. Never known to say an unkind word about anyone, Stewart Dawson was a good influence on his part of the community at Maple Lake.

County social worker approved

A permanent social worker will be posted in Haliburton County according to this county's representative on the Kawartha-Haliburton Children's Aid Society. Meredith Amm told the November 19 meeting of county council that the position has been approved by the governing board.

He said he did not expect the position to be filled until the new year, because of restrictions on this year's budget.

Amm had reported to the council earlier this year that the position was under consideration. He noted at that time that a resident social worker would be better equipped to deal with emergency family stress situations.

MEMORIAL FUND

In Memory of: Rod Gorveatt, Jeff Hutchings, Penny Pripp and Wendy Schell a Memorial Fund has been established.

Its purpose is to provide for four annual awards in perpetuity to students of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. Each award will bear the name of one of the four students.

If you wish to make a donation to this fund, please send a cheque made payable to the "Haliburton Highlands Scholarship Fund" to:

Mr. T. B. Mosgrove, Principal,
Haliburton Highlands S. S.,
P. O. Box 390,
Haliburton, Ontario
KOM 1SO

If you attach your name and address, a receipt for income tax deductions will be mailed to you.

Any excess monies in the memorial fund would be used in the loan fund for students engaged in post-secondary education. Students borrow money from this fund to continue their formal studies. The money is repaid at zero or low interest. Thus, this money would also be available in perpetuity to assist students.

It has been a beehive of activity this past week at Hyland Crest. We had our regular fun and fitness and crafts on Monday. In the evening several residents went to the auditorium to watch the movies. The first film was called Science off the Shelf. It told us how cosmetics are made. A Chance to Save a Life was presented by the Boy Scouts of Canada. It showed us how rescue breathing and other methods can help you save a life. Both films were very interesting.

Tuesday morning, Reverend Douglas Miller of Minden United Church held service in the Chapel. Mrs. Agnes Taylor played the organ during the service.

Wednesday, the annual Christmas Bazaar was held. I think I can safely say it was the most successful yet. There was a lovely display of craft items and a bake sale. There was also a white elephant table. Many of our visitors enjoyed a cup of tea and Christmas goodies. Mrs. Luella Madill of Haliburton was the lucky winner of the beautiful hand-made quilt. The lucky ticket was drawn by our auxiliary president, Mrs. Aileen Blears. A special thank you to all our Auxiliary members and volunteer staff who worked so hard to make our Christmas Bazaar the great success it was.

Thursday afternoon, the ladies of the Gospel Church in Minden served a delicious variety of sandwiches, tea breads and cookies at the Tea Party. After the lunch, the ladies led our residents in a sing song of favorite gospel hymns. Thank you ladies for a most enjoyable afternoon.

Friday afternoon, Mrs. Grace Coburn was here to lead the sing song. We enjoyed a duet by Mrs. Coburn and Mrs. Mary Oliver, who is a resident of our home. Our thanks to our resident piano-player, Mrs. Krick who played the piano for the sing song.

I would like to mention at this time that we have started a fund-raising campaign to buy a new colour television for our home. Our goal is $1,000. Any donations would be greatly appreciated to help us reach our goal. I will keep my readers informed of our progress. Wouldn't it be nice to present our residents of Hyland Crest with a new colour T.V. for Christmas? The television we now have is beyond repair and this is why we have started this fund.

New executive for Club 35

Club 35 has elected a new slate of officers for the coming year at a meeting held November 13.

Heading the club for the next year will be Clarence Bunker as president. Others on the executive include: first vice president Alec Stevenson; second vice president Albert Summers; secretary Art Hunt; treasurer Luther Wilson; social convener Shirley Bunker; entertainment convener Bill Donnelly; and trustee Harold Sawyer.

The meeting was chaired by the outgoing president, Dean Hodgson. The members offered a minute silence in memory of a deceased friend, Mr. Stuart Dawson.

Following the election of the new executive, Mrs. Velda Harrison volunteered to keep in touch with members of the club who are ill or shut-in. She will be sending cards, flowers and fruit on behalf of the members.

Mrs. Watson moved a vote of appreciation to the retiring president and treasurer Bill Lindsay. Mr. Lindsay served not only as the treasurer of the club, but was also an untiring supporter as well.

The new executive assumes office in the new year.

Appointment

Wally Bunn of Minden has been appointed to the county's Land Division Committee. The appointment was approved at the November 12 meeting of township council.

Wednesday, November 19 was the regular meeting of Minden Women's Institute. This was at St. Paul's Parish Hall with Mrs. P. Clarke, vice president in the chair. After the usual opening and reports she welcomed the guests and members answered the roll call. "Talent of the person on your right". The Card Convenor, Mrs. Bill Moore reported that 29 cards had been sent since the last meeting. Collections for this Fund and Pennies for Friendship were taken.

Yvonne Beaucage, convenor, introduced her speaker, Sonya Holliday-Rhodes. She gave out copies of a brief and then went on to tell of the effects of Acid Rain on our lakes and environment. This was quite frightening, as from surveys, if nothing is done our lakes may die. Also the Acid Rain from some American and Canadian cities are to blame for this. She told us some remedies that may be used. She also suggested that we write to important people in our government to let them know we are aware of this problem. After her talk, she answered questions and Mrs. M. Sears made a presentation of a small gift in appreciation.

Mrs. A. S. Kernohan had been our delegate to Area Convention at Royal York Hotel in Toronto and she brought us many details which were important and thanked us for sending her to this.

The next meeting will be Wednesday December 17 at United Church Hall at 2 p.m. with Christmas verse for roll call and exchange of gifts and Secret Pal gifts.

The meeting adjourned and all enjoyed a social half hour and lunch served by the committee.

HOW TO SAVE ENERGY ON THE ROAD.

Your energy is valuable, but it's easy to save. Here are some tips to help all drivers stop wasting our valuable energy.

1. Don't speed. Staying below 90 kph uses about 20 per cent less fuel than speeding at 110 kph.
2. Accelerate smoothly and steadily. Sudden starts force too much fuel into the engine, fuel that just gets wasted instead of being burned efficiently.
3. Brake slowly and evenly. Anticipate stops and ease up on the accelerator earlier.
4. Using the recommended octane grade for your car, avoiding unnecessary idling and using an automatically timed block heater in winter are other easy ways to cut down on energy use... and cost.

For more information on energy conservation in the home or in the car, write to: Ministry of Energy, GMS Box 37, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario M7A 2B7.

Life is good, Ontario.

There is such joy in little things--
A friendly smile, a gay hello.
A visit on the telephone
Will give my day a happy glow.
Throughout the day I seem to find
So much that gives my spirit wings,
But most of all I'm finding true,
My joy is in the little things.

Success is speaking words of praise,
In cheering other people's ways,
In doing just the best you can,
With every task and every plan,
It's silence when your speech would hurt,
Politeness when your neighbour's curt,
it's deafness when the scandal flows,
And sympathy with others' woes,
it's loyalty when duty calls,
it's courage when disaster falls,
It's patience when the hours are long,
It's found in laughter and in song,
It's in the silent time of prayer,
In happiness and in despair,
In all of life and nothing less,
We find the thing we call success.

Lines from Lutterworth

Hi! We sure have had some lovely weather for this time of year. Hope it stays like this till Christmas Day, then we can have some snow until the day after. The skiers and snowmobilers would sure hate me if that happened.

"If you can't read your business's financial statement then it's of no use to you"

LEARN HOW

The Federal Business Development Bank (in co-operation with the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce) is presenting a one day crash course on "How To Read Financial Statements & Plan For A Possible Expansion"

During our seminar, we first review the basic financial statements on which business decisions should be based. We then discuss the operating forecast, a most useful tool, and show how it can often take the guesswork out of good financial planning. These principles are then put to the test by reviewing a practical, real-life Case Study in which all registrants become the "decision makers!" If the future of your business is important to you — don't miss this opportunity!

DATE: Dec. 2, 1980
TIME: 9 - 4 p.m. (Registration 8:30)
PLACE: PineStone Inn
COST: $35 (Includes lunch & texts)
($25 for each additional person from your business)
